1. Import or open an image. In the Adobe suite of applications, you can find the Photoshop Organizer under the Photoshop folder. Under the Organizer window, look for an Open window. If you are in the Adobe suite of applications, select File⇒Open or press Ctrl+O (Windows) or . The Photoshop Organizer opens with a large display of an image, as shown in Figure 7-1, left. Figure 7-1: The Organizer window provides a convenient place to open and organize images for editing and publishing. You can open a folder of images by selecting Open from the Organizer menu or by using the keyboard shortcut Ctrl+O (Windows) or . Files are displayed in an open folder within the Organizer window. You can open an image from within the Organizer by double-clicking to bring up the Open image dialog box. After you have chosen the image you want to open, check the box to Include image in the folder it is in and press the Open button. Photoshop opens the image into an editable area in the center of the Organizer window. Note that the Organizer window displays the image at its original size and location in the file system as the Organizer window in Figure 7-1, right. If you choose to open a folder of images, check the box to Include images in the folder in the Organizer, as shown in Figure 7-2, and press the Open button. Photoshop displays each image that's in the folder and opens each one into an editable area in the center of the Organizer window. Figure 7-2: Double-click to open an image. 2. Select the Layers palette by pressing Ctrl+Alt+L (Windows) or +Option+L (Mac). 3. *To create a new layer, select the New Layer icon at the bottom of the Layers palette. 4. Using a selection tool, drag an object from the original image onto a new layer. 5. When a color overlay appears, use the Move tool to drag it into the right position over the new layer. 6. Repeat steps 2 and 3 to create more layers. Try not to drag through more than one layer at a time because Photoshop, as you see later in this book, can automatically merge overlapping layers

What are the implications of the Rule on physical borders? The concept of jurisdiction, in the context of multilateral trade negotiations, relates to the scope of a state's trade authority. The evolution of existing regional trade agreements has extended this concept, adding to its legal repertoire the concept of some physical borders between countries, which may hinder trade. Within the context of the United Nations negotiations on the Trans Pacific Partnership Agreement (TPPA), the argument can be made that the concept of "physical borders" might not be novel and that the current text reflects prior practice, including the exclusive economic zone, the concept of regional value chains, and the "virtual borders" proposed in earlier South East Asia agreements. This paper demonstrates that the original concept of physical borders in the current SAFTA is much broader than existing practice, including previous agreements, which may violate the SAFTA and TPPA. The paper concludes with a discussion on how to amend current provision to make it more compatible with current practice and the draft text of the SAFTA or TPPA.

Stem cell factor regulates the chemotaxis of dendritic cells. Immature dendritic cells (DC) migrate toward chemokines, including the ligand stem cell factor (SCF), in response to inflammatory chemokines. DC can produce SCF in response to inflammatory cytokines. We compared the ability of SCF and the chemokine monocyte chemoattractant protein (MCP) to attract DCs in response to stimulation with the microbial lipopolysaccharide (LPS) and the antifungal drug N-methyl-N'-nitro-N-nitrosoguanidine (MNNG). DCs were harvested from the spleens of mice treated with N-acetylcysteine and then either pulsed with LPS or exposed to MNNG. Phenotypic analyses revealed that DCs were of dendritic morphology following both treatments. The SCF receptor, c-kit, and the SCF receptor, CD117/c-kit, were expressed on surface DC. Addition of LPS-pulsed DCs to wells containing SCF increased migration of DCs approximately 10-fold over chemotaxis in response to SCF alone. The beta chain of LPS was required for this stimulation. Stem cell factor also potentiated the chemotaxis of DCs in response to the MCPs. Inhibition of endogenous SCF synthesis, by LPS or MNNG, with the synthetic SC
