A new method of hot solvent extraction has been proposed for the spectrofluorometric determination of zinc, copper, cadmium, and nickel in biological samples, using a mixture of solutions of saturated NaCl and anisole. The proposed method is based on the oxidation of the complexes extracted as sodium complexes of dyes, which increase the fluorescence on the emission spectrum. A homogeneous system is presented for the spectrofluorometric determination of cadmium, nickel, and zinc in aqueous biological samples. The limit of detection is below 1, 0.1, 0.3, and 0.3 ng/mL for cadmium, nickel, zinc, and copper, respectively. This method has been successfully applied to the determination of the above elements in standard reference materials and biological materials. Q: Dúvida sobre o que significa "indicação" e "referente" Estou estudando testes de situações hipotéticas em testes de escolha de uso (TEX) e é difícil entender o que significa o "indicação" e "referente" na seção Quantificadores, exemplo: Caso A) Preciso informar se a empresa é responsável pelo processamento de pagamentos feitos via centenas de clientes e sistemas de pagamento diferentes. A: Mas você só pode saber se é algo ou outro se você saber o que são esses quantificadores, quando a mesma definição está acima da lista, aparece o teu item (
