Tips and Tricks Simple Things That Can Improves The Performance Of Your PC! Everyone wants to keep their PC running in tip-top shape, but sometimes the simplest or most overlooked tweaks can speed up your machine. (A beep) Oh well, as you can see, it didn't work! Remember that, because this will happen a lot while you're tweaking. So, let's get started with those tips and tricks. Here are five that you should try: Add a color mode to the taskbar. People often don't realize that their taskbar is actually just a single color. Try changing the colors. A lot of programs will make use of this color palette. A few years ago, we added a shortcut to the Windows Start menu that performs a search for applications as well as documents. It is really fast, and it is really good. And that's why we put a lot of work into it. If you start typing, it will find you out. So type and send an email.

(Beep) Yeah, type and send an email! And here's the thing: It works. And it works really well. Here's why: It uses more than just your alphabetical search, and it uses more than just the words in your search query. Instead, it uses things like related searches, so if you're searching for something and say something like "adobe creative suite", it will use Adobe as a keyword, but it will also use the fact that it is associated with all the programs in the Adobe suite. A beep lets you know that the search is complete. Now, let's assume you want to save some of your documents. What? Why would you want to save them? It's like saving them! No, so you don't want to lose them, and you want to keep them if something happens to your PC. So, let's say you have some files and you want to keep them on your own drive, but you don't want to overwrite the files 09e8f5149f
