Category:Video game franchises Category:Microsoft franchises Category:Medal of Honor video games Category:Video game franchises introduced in 2007 Category:Fiction about espionage Category:Fiction set in 2029 Category:Video games set in the 2020s; Pattern Matching for text I have a dynamic code like string code = "02_0B_0B_0C_0C_0C"; The above code is composed of four sections as below 0000_02_ BBB_ 0C_ In my application I have to match whether a pattern as above exists in my code or not. I have written a method to match the above pattern string code = "02_0B_0B_0C_0C_0C"; public static bool CheckFitness(string code, string pattern) { if (String.IsNullOrEmpty(code)) throw new ArgumentException("code", "Code is null or empty"); if (String.IsNullOrEmpty(pattern)) throw new ArgumentException("pattern", "Pattern is null or empty");
///Not using regex here as "code" will be in the form ///of 0000_02_BBB_0C_0C_0C //public static string[] splitCode = Regex.Split(code, "_"); string[] splittedCode = code.Split('_');//check if the pattern is present in one of the four segments of the code //one by one foreach (string s in splittedCode) { if (pattern.IndexOf(s)!= -1) { //return true; } //return false; } What I have observed is that when the number of segments is less than four as in the case when the code contains 4bc0d4bc42
