language developed by Sun Microsystems. Q: What is the difference between array and object? I'm learning OOP in JavaScript. In JavaScript, we have two types of data structures: object and array. I understood that in JavaScript, an object is a data structure, in which data are stored as property values of an object. An example is shown below: { name: "John", country: "USA", age: 24, } Array is a data structure, in which data are stored as values of an array. An example is shown below: ["Hello", "Name", "There", "To", "Programmers"] Other than what I have mentioned above, are there any other differences in use between object and array? Please note that I've already read the jQuery array and object documentation: and A: I understood that in JavaScript, an object is a data structure, in which data are stored as property values of an object. You are partially correct. An object in JavaScript is nothing more than a hash table. If you want to learn more, the Mozilla docs are a good resource. What is an object? A JavaScript object is a collection of d0c515b9f4
